TOWING TALES

NEWSLETTER

CONCORD CARAVANNERS OF W.A.

Bunbury Glades Caravan Park

Friday 27th / 30st Sept.

Here I go again, about to put fingers to the key board, all I can say is thank God for spell check. Another great turnout for this Rally. We had 6 vans in all, with Jack, Jodi, Jess & Jake enjoying the comforts of an onsite chalet. It was so good to see them all, it has been too long between visits.

Everyone was all in by Friday, with Terry, Sue along with Albert & Maree arriving a day early, alright for some, I suppose (just jealous).

So Friday night it was sit around & catch-up on what everyone has been up to, since our last Rally.

Saturday seen Mr President open the meeting in his usual happy & meaningful manner. He out lined the plan for the week-end for those that wanted to join in the plans.

We did the raffle which raised $55

So it was agreed on a snag BBQ & roll for lunch, to follow with kicking back to watch the very uneventful grand final under the marquees, with Steve Hession bringing his big screen TV. The girls gathered under the Keilor's awning, chatting & doing their crafts. In which I must mention that thanks to the raffle & Julie showing Jess how to do diamond art, that kept her pretty busy all week-end, sorry Jodi, the girl's hope it is not going to keep you broke. But on the upside Jake came away with the winning smile, by winning the "pick the margin & winning team" with $44 in his pocket.

Sunday was off to The Dardanup Heritage Village (not in Dardanup). Well what can I say about that place, a world of history all in one place. There was so much to see & hear about.

We were there that long, we all had lunch in the café & then went back out to see more.

So it was time to get back to the park to settle in for happy hour & to hear what Jack & family got up to. They went off to a brewery or 2 & had a good day out as well.

Sunday was very much laid back, not much of all happening. The men playing dice game while the girls gathered again crafting & gossiping, with Jess still diamond arting. Happy hour & then dinner done & dusted, it was time for the girls to kick back with their pink feather boa's to watch "Girls Night Out" on TV, with men going in all directions. Then Jack coming in to join them he was threatened with our getting their girls out just for him, but were not sure if his heart or eye's could handle it, so it was decided not to do it to him. So was the end of a great couple of days.

Monday we bid farewell to Jack & Jodi, with the rest of us deciding to stay an extra day. Not that we did much. Happy hour was over in the parks tv/games room & then fish & chips for dinner. The girls settled in to watch Dirty Dancing, while us guys sat outside talking blocky stuff.

So all in all it was another good week-end & look forward to Binningup.
